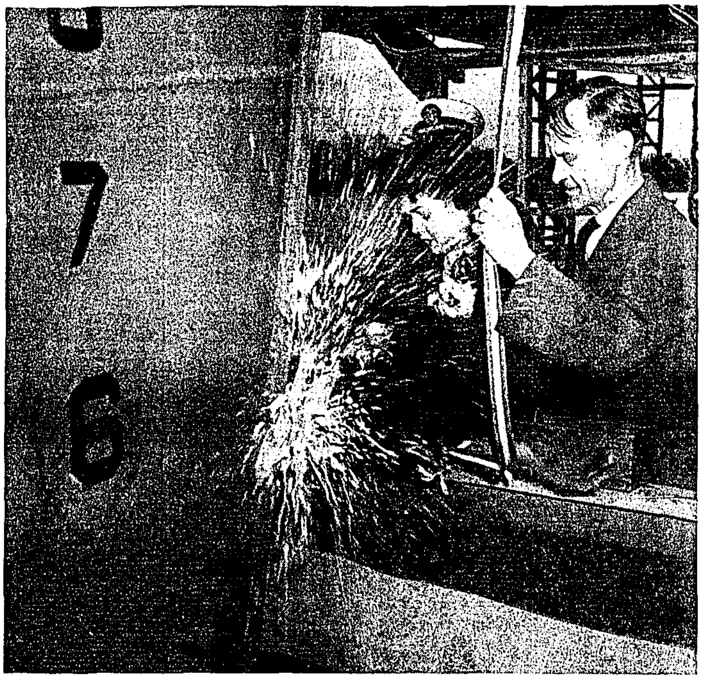
Sister Christens Destroyer Escort for Filer Marine Hero



There was no missing of the target as Jean Maxine Gentry, 17, Kimberly, christened the destroyer escort USS Gentry at Orange, Tex., Feb. 15 in honor of her brother, Marine Second Lieut. Wayne Roy Gentry, killed Nov. 2, 1942 in the Solomon islands. The christening took place at the yards of the Consolidated Steel corporation's shipbuilding division, and Miss Gentry had been invited by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox to sponsor the ship named for her hero brother. Born in Twin Falls and educated in Filer, Lieutenant Gentry was commissioned marine second lieutenant May 27, 1942; was ordered to duty in the Pacific that fall; was killed in action in a hazardous volunteer mission as pilot in an attack group. He was awarded the air medal and purple heart posthumously and was entitled to the American defense service medal, the Asiatic-Pacific area campaign medal and a ribbon for the presidential citation awarded the first marine division reinforced. U. S. Attack on Jap Bases Spreads From Paramushiro To Rabaul; 92 Ships Sunk

By MORRIE LANDSBERG
Associated Press War Editor

Destruction of 92 Japanese vessels in the last three weeks was reported by Secretary Knox today, while American commanders told of attacks by sea and air against enemy bases from Paramushiro to Rabaul.

Knox coupled his disclosure of heavy Japanese shipping losses with the warning that "there is nothing to justify any estimates of an early end of the war in the Pacific." At his press conference, he spoke of undue optimism as the result of the audacious assault on Truk, nipponese naval stronghold in the central Carolines.

The 92 Japanese ships destroyed by American ships, planes and submarines apparently included the 19 listed as sunk in the Feb. 16-17 carrier strike at Truk, as well as other successes previously reported in communiques.

Mounting Pressure Noted

The announcement, however, served to underline the mounting pressure against Japanese positions along a 3,000-mile long front in the Pacific.

U. S. soldiers and marines captured stubbornly-defended Eniwetok island while air and surface units pounded adjacent Parry island to put the finishing touches on the successful six-day-old invasion of Eniwetok atoll at the western edge of the Marshalls.

In a new victory against the enemy's weakened shipping, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported that American air patrols destroyed nine enemy freighters and escort vessels as they attempted to flee Rabaul, New Britain. A 6,000-ton Japanese vessel was sunk off Wewak, New Guinea.

Navy Fliers Hit Paramushiro

Completing a cycle of potent attacks on Japanese positions throughout their system of Pacific defense bases, navy fliers returned to the Kuriles chain to bomb Paramushiro and Shumushu islands at the far northern end of nipponese home territory. Not a plane was lost.

More than a thousand miles to the south, army and navy planes damaged airfields, strafed shipping and hit ground installations in raids on three Marshall atolls still held by the Japanese.

Associated Press correspondent William L. Worden, in a Feb. 21 dispatch from an American flagship off Eniwetok, said the latest campaign differed from previous actions in the Gilberts and Marshalls because of less naval artillery preparation. Even so, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said American casualties to last night were only 150 dead and 350 wounded, against an undetermined but undoubtedly higher enemy toll.

Churchill Promises Allied Raids Beyond Imagination

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

LONDON, Feb. 22 (U.P.)—Prime Minister Churchill told commons today that the allies will step up their air assault on Germany "far beyond the dimensions of anything yet employed, or, indeed, imagined," but warned that the nazi command was preparing to retaliate with attacks by "pilotless aircraft, rockets, or both, on a substantial scale."

In his first full address since his return from the historic conferences at Cairo and Teheran, Churchill said Britain, the United States and Russia were bound in a solemn compact "to fall on and smite the hun by land, sea, and air with all the strength that is in us this coming spring and summer."

Victory Must Be Near

"The task is heavy, the toll is long, and the trail will be severe," he said in concluding his 78-minute speech. "Let us all try our best to do our duty. Victory must not be far away and certainly will not be denied us in the end."

At the same time, however, Churchill said he never had taken the view that Adolf Hitler was about to collapse and never had given any guarantee, or even held out any expectation that the year 1944 will see the end of the European war."

With American air strength in Britain now beginning to surpass that of the RAF, he said, the spring and summer will show a "vast increase" in the strength of the allied air offensive against Germany and occupied territory — "the foundation upon which our plans for overseas invasion stand."

In warning that Germany was preparing to retaliate with pilotless-plane or rocket attacks, Churchill for the first time gave a clue to the targets on the French invasion coast which American and British planes have been attacking almost ceaselessly for more than a month.

New Weapon Watched

"There is no doubt that the Germans are preparing on the French shore a new means of attack . . ." he said "We long have been watching this with the utmost vigilance."

Other highlights of Churchill's speech included:

1—Allied air raids have tied down 3,000,000 German defense and air raid precautions workers, drawn off four-fifths of Germany's fighter planes, produced a dull apathy among the German people and had a "noteworthy effect" on nazi munitions production.

2—United States aircraft production alone is double or treble that of Germany.

3—United States-British strength at the opening of the western front will be "approximately equal," but if the struggle becomes prolonged, the continuous flow of Americans will make their force greater.

300 Nazi Infantry Divisions

4—Germany still has 300 infantry divisions—at full strength 4,500,000 men—but many divisions have been reduced numerically.

5—The battle in Italy will be hard and long against 500,000 Germans, but allied leaders are confident of final success.

6—There has been no cooling in Anglo-American-Russian friendship or rebirth of suspicion since the Teheran conference.

7—Some arrangement as to a Russian-Polish border should be made before the end of the war and Russia's demand for reassurance about her western frontier does not go beyond the limits of what is "reasonable and just."

REDS SEEK QUICK KRIVOI ROG FALL

LONDON, Feb. 22 (U.P.)—The German DNB news agency said today that German forces have evacuated the Ukrainian mining center of Krivoi Rog, the last nazi stronghold in the middle Dnieper bend.

MOSCOW, Feb. 22 (U.P.)—The red army, slashing at both flanks of the German battle line, stormed through the streets of Krivoi Rog and raced over the approaches to Pskov today in bids for quick victories to celebrate the 26th anniversary of its founding tomorrow.

Front dispatches gave every indication that Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's army of the Ukraine was prepared to smash German resistance at Krivoi Rog, great mining center anchoring the nazi salient in the Ukraine.

The two year old German grip on the western Black sea coast and the western Ukraine was beginning to crack under Soviet hammer blows timed to capitalize on the extension of the nazi lines.

The Germans apparently were putting up a stiff fight for Krivoi Rog, but their plight was heightened by the danger of a new encirclement, and it appeared improbable that they could hold out long against the Russian assault.

At the other end of the winding front, the red army advance toward Pskov was progressing steadily despite German attempts to make a stand at the Dno junction. All signs pointed to a continued nazi retreat into the Baltic state coincident with the crumpling of the lines along the Black sea.

The Russians had a special historic interest in the push toward Pskov, since that was the region in which the red army was born in 1918 when it took the field against the Germans.

Front dispatches said the third Ukrainian army appeared on the point of "picking Krivoi Rog like a ripe plum."

FDR Returns Vetoed Tax Bill to Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt tossed the $2,315,000,000 tax bill back to congress today with a veto message in which he described it as "wholly ineffective" and a relief measure "not for the needy but for the greedy."

In a message to the house, already rumbling with talk of over-riding the veto, Mr. Roosevelt said the legislation was "replete with provisions which not only afford indefensible special privileges to favored groups but set dangerous precedents for the future."

The President said this tendency in itself was sufficiently dangerous to counter the loss of "a very inadequate sum" in additional revenue. He calculated that the bill would enrich the treasury by less than $1,000,000,000 net a year.

Thursday Set for Vote

With Republican members lined up almost solidly behind the measure, congress set Thursday for a vote on whether to pass the legislation over Mr. Roosevelt's objections.

The President, recognizing widespread complaints over the complexity of income tax forms, took occasion to lay the blame on congress.

He said it was squarely the fault of the legislators in using language in drafting tax legislation "which not even a dictionary or a thesaurus can make clear."

The chief executive said he hoped congress would act as quickly as possible to simplify tax laws which in turn would make possible simplification of forms and computation. Taxpayers engaged in an effort to win the nation's greatest war, he declared, "are not in a mood to study higher mathematics."

Had Sought $10,500,000,000

Mr. Roosevelt had asked congress for $10,500,000,000 in additional taxes, and he noted that some prominent persons had stated that the figure was too low. Apparently he referred to Wendell L. Willkie's suggestion for a $16,000,000,000 tax bill.

"The responsibility of the congress of the United States," the President said, "is to supply the government of the United States . . . with adequate revenue for wartime needs, to provide fiscal support for the stabilization program, to hold firm against the tide of special privileges, and to achieve real simplicity for millions of small income taxpayers.

"In the interest of strengthening the home front, in the interest of speeding the day of victory I urge the earliest possible action."

NAZIS REPULSED ON ROME BEACH

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, Feb. 22 (AP)—Heavy artillery barrages and small but fierce infantry clashes marked the fighting yesterday in the allied beachhead below Rome, where, fifth army officers said today, savage American and British resistance and their counter-attacks have definitely beaten the nazi all-out drive to push the allies into the sea.

American front-line troops and the Germans fired everything they had at one another at two points yesterday, but neither side gained any ground.

Allied artillery shelled German infantry and tanks forming around Aprilia "factory" east of Carroceto and apparently broke up preparations for a renewed enemy attack. None developed.

"As another day passed without decisive actions either on the main front around Cassino or at the beachhead, fifth army spokesmen interpreted relaxation of German pressure against the beachhead as meaning the German offensive to erase it had failed for the second time since the allies landed below Rome just a month ago.

At the coastal end of the main southern front in the lower Garigliano region British troops engaged in several small clashes with the Germans.

On the eighth army front across the peninsula, allied artillery fire scattered two small German attacks toward Indian-held positions in the Orsogna area yesterday.

Liddle-Senseless Mairzy Song Proves Grownups Like to Play

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (U.P.)—Whether or not mairzy doats and dozy doats and liddle lamzy divey maybe is a liddle senseless, but it does prove a couple of things.

Indeedy doz. It is evidence, according to Lyle W. Ashby, assistant editor of the National Education Association journal, that "people like to be children again." Thadis, he adds, "grown-ups still like to play."

To psychiatrist Dr. Winfred Overholster, who doesn't know whether does do or don't, the double-talk song is "just one of those curious phenomena that go to show people are human after all."

Overholster says mairzy does not indicate that the whole world will collapse edy middit or eddy other such thing. "A little foolishness now and then," Overholster observed, "is relished by the best of men."

Editor Ashby says mairzy is no more dangerous to your sanity than Lewis Carroll's "trillig - brillig stuff," although he is not ready to predict any such lengthy and quotable life for doats.

"If people have a good time singing Mairzy Doats," he adds, "let's just say 'God bless it,' and make the most of mairzy.

"It's a good sort of release. Cheers people up. You might say it relieves the tedium of being serious about things."

Furthermore, Ashby indicates, you canont be too young or too old for mairzy. Suppose a sedate white-haired lady should be impelled to whistle mairzy as she walks down the street or waits for a bus?

"Well," answers Ashby, "ledder."

Action Postponed On CCC Extension

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (U.P.)—Chairman Brent Spence, D., Ky., of the house banking and currency committee, today postponed until tomorrow a committee meeting at which the group had been expected to approve a bill extending the life of the commodity credit corporation.

The committee had expected to write into the bill subsidy program provisions acceptable to President Roosevelt. Spence said too many committeemen were absent to hold the meeting, but he hoped the bill would be approved tomorrow.

Republican members of the committee also felt that agreement was near but said they would press for adoption of subsidy restrictions tentatively approved yesterday.

BOARD APPROVES AID FOR TEACHERS

BOISE, Feb. 22 (AP)—A resolution requesting approximately $400,000 for use as an emergency teacher wage fund, was approved today by members of the Idaho board of education in quarterly session here.

Shortly after the resolution was adopted, C. E. Roberts, state superintendent of public instruction, John I. Hillman, secretary of the Idaho Education association, and Floyd West, assistant secretary of the state Chamber of Commerce, presented the proposal to Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen, who took the request under advisement.

Gov. Bottolfsen last week issued a call for a special session to consider soldier vote legislation. After the call was issued, he indicated he would consider a proposal to reconvene the legislature to consider emergency education appropriations if the need is shown before the first extra session actually gets underway.

Showdown Looms In Power Strike

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22 (U.P.)—The nine-day old municipal power strike, which has halted production in 79 war plants manufacturing vital aircraft parts and blacked out more than 50,000 homes and 5,000 street lights, headed for a showdown today as manufacturers looked to President Roosevelt for "drastic action" to settle the dispute.

The President was asked to intercede yesterday after the strikers had refused to mend electric lines broken by the worst storm in a decade, increasing the number of power failures in war plants.

Under-Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson appealed to the strikers to end the walkout which was called to enforce demands for a $15 monthly pay increase.

NAVY HOSPITAL'S HEAD DIES AT 61

SUN VALLEY, Feb. 22 — Capt. Alfred Lee Clifton, 61, medical officer in command of the U. S. naval convalescent hospital here, died suddenly at 12:15 a. m. today at his home.

Captain Clifton, who came here as commanding officer six months ago, was apparently in good health when he attended a motion picture show last night. About 9 p. m. he became ill and went home.

Although the cause of death was not definitely stated today, Capt. F. M. Rohow, executive officer of the naval base, indicated belief that it was a heart condition.

At Jerome, Nile Matthew, manager of the Jerome funeral home where the body was taken, said he had been advised that an autopsy might be held to confirm the diagnosis.

Captain Rohow said Captain Clifton was apparently in good health yesterday, taking a long walk during the day and a swim afterward.

Memorial services are planned at the naval hospital but the day and hour have not been selected.

Captain Clifton had a record of service dating back 34 years in the U. S. navy, and was decorated for service in World war I.

He was first commissioned as a doctor in the medical corps after graduating from the University of Delaware with a B. S. degree, and the University of Pennsylvania, where he obtained his medical degree.

COORDINATED AIR DRIVE HITS REICH

LONDON, Feb. 22 (AP)—The first coordinated air attack against Germany from bases in the United Kingdom and Italy was carried out today, with planes from the south and west hitting aircraft factories and other targets, U. S. army headquarters announced.

The combined assault was made by the U. S. eighth and 15th air forces, and was "the third major daylight bombing operation in as many days aimed at destruction of Germany's capacity to maintain an aerial defensive against further bombing," the announcement said.

"Our bomber divisions were supported by fighters of the eighth, ninth and 15th air forces and RAF, dominion and allied Spitfires."

This joint blow followed two consecutive attacks by nearly 2,000 U.S. heavy bombers and fighters each time from Britain against aircraft factories and air fields in Germany on Sunday and Monday.

"Final assessment of victories in the air during Monday's operations by our British-based heavy bombers shows the bombers destroyed 18 enemy fighters, bringing to 51 the total number shot down that day. The destruction of 33 by American air force fighters was announced previously," headquarters added.

No details on today's concerted assault were disclosed immediately.

Earlier in the day American and British medium and light bombers jabbed at enemy targets in the Netherlands and northern France.

$8,070 Bank Robbery Suspect Nabbed Here

James R. Bailey, 41, Missoula, Mont., was arrested by FBI and Twin Falls city and county officers at the union bus depot here Monday night as a suspect in the $8,070 robbery of a Spokane, Wash., bank last Jan. 20.

Although armed with a .25 caliber automatic pistol, Bailey submitted quietly when he was taken from the bus, said officers who participated.

(Staff Photo-Engraving)

The arrest was made by Howard Gillette, Twin Falls chief of police, and an FBI agent, whose name, under FBI regulations, cannot be given. Officers assisting in the arrest, according to W. G. Bannister, special agent in charge, Butte, Mont., were Assistant Chief Lee McCracken, Patrolmen Lavern Rawlings and Charles (Chuck) Vance; Deputy Sheriffs Ed Hall and John E. Leiser; and State Patrolman W. L. Chancey.

Bailey was put under $25,000 bond by U. S. Commissioner J. O. Pumphrey when he was arraigned Tuesday morning, and was held in the county jail awaiting removal to the federal district court at Spokane.

Bailey's arrest here was half of an FBI move which also resulted in apprehension in Missoula last night of Lewis W. Hemmert, who is named with Bailey in the complaint charging robbery of the Spokane bank. Bannister said that Hemmert resisted arrest, catching a Missoula officer's hand and twisting it, but the officer subdued him. There was no shooting.

Hemmert previously had been arrested by the sheriff at Spokane on a vagrancy charge Aug. 23, 1938, Bannister said, and worked for a contractor at Pearl Harbor in 1941 and 1942. Bailey's criminal record if any is uncertain, Bannister said, pending further checking.

Bailey carried slightly more than $300 when arrested here, in addition to the gun. He carried two suitcases, one of which he told officers contained guns. They were to be examined later. He was en route from Pocatello to Klamath Falls, Ore., when arrested.

The suspected bank robber was said to have told officers that he received money—$1,300—from the robbery, but that he did not participate in the actual robbery.

accompanied the first troop convoy overseas. For outstanding service in this conflict Captain Clifton received two service ribbons, a bronze and star for overseas service, and a silver star awarded by special letter of commendation for duty performed while a member of the staff on the flagship of Admiral Gleaves. This was said to be one of the few individual citations of its kind awarded.

Prior to coming to Sun Valley Captain Clifton was commanding officer of the Mare Island naval hospital.

He was born July 16, 1882, in Smyrna, Del.

Captain Clifton is survived by his wife, two daughters and his mother. The daughters, both married to naval officers, are Mrs. Corbin Schutes, Coronado, Calif., whose husband is a commander in the line of the navy, and Mrs. Mary Lewis, wife of a marine officer captured on Wake island and now held prisoner. Mrs. Lewis has lived with her parents at the naval hospital here.

The body will be at the Jerome funeral home, where friends may view it, until Monday, when shipment to Smyrna is expected to be made. Funeral services and interment will be in Smyrna.

Life Magazine Shows Pictures Of Buhl Marine

BUHL, Feb. 22—Buhl has reached the pages of Life magazine by way of Cpl. Elmer Burkhalter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burkhalter, Buhl, whose action pictures taken by cameraman Frank Filan in the Marshall islands invasion and published recently by the Associated Press in every section of the United States, have been reprinted in the current issue of Life.

On page 35 of the magazine is a larger picture of Corporal Burkhalter operating the flame-thrower, which appeared in the Times-News. Other pictures described in a recent news release from Buhl, but not seen before by Magic Valley residents, may also be seen in the same magazine feature. In the lower left-hand corner of page 34, is a clear full-face picture of Corporal Burkhalter (left) and Pfc. Gilbert Maxwell, of Oklahoma City, Okla., as they kneel beside a Jap chest found in a foxhole, which is decorated with many Japanese pin-up girls.

On page 36 is another picture of Corporal Burkhalter holding his flame-thrower and looking down on two dead Japs. The men in the last two pictures are not identified in Life, but their names were carried in the news caption which appeared with the pictures when they were published in the daily papers in other sections of the country, and which Mr. and Mrs. Burkhalter had sent to them from every corner of the United States.

Full Houses See Buhl Class Play

BUHL, Feb. 22—The senior class play, "My Man Godfrey," played to full houses at the high school auditorium. A matinee was held in the afternoon for the junior high school and grades, and a public performance was put on in the evening.

Following were the principal characters: Godfrey, Gordon Carlson; Irene, Frances Oppliger; Cornelia, Vivian Zucal; Mrs. Bullock, Eleanor Stelma; Mr. Bullock, Vernon Herzinger. The leading characters were supported by ten minor characters to round out the plot.

The cast did exceptionally good work, with special commendation going to Godfrey and Irene for outstanding performances.

$200 Purse Owner Found by Sheriff

He was L. H. Peterson, Emerson rancher. Peterson gave the finders, Doris Bowers and Donna Mae Ashcraft, $25 each.

REWARD POSTED IN HOME THEFT

A $25 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the burglar who took an automatic shotgun, jewelry and other articles from the Miles J. Browning home, 1141 Eleventh avenue east, was offered Tuesday by the Twin Falls police department.

"The identity of anyone furnishing this information will not be revealed," said Chief of Police Howard Gillette, and he will not be required to testify in court."

The loss reported to police, estimated to total several hundred dollars, included a 12-gauge Browning automatic shotgun, a jeweled platinum and gold bracelet valued at $100, a platinum-mounted diamond ring valued at $250, a set of platinum cufflinks and four studs to match and seven quarts of liquors.

Gillette said access to the house was gained through a basement window, which was unlocked.

The jewelry was said to have been taken from a room where there was money and other jewelry within easy reach, but which was not molested.

Church Training Courses Continue

The third annual union Christian service training school sponsored by the educational committee of the Twin Falls Ministerial association will go into its second session at 8 p. m. today after an opening gathering of 134 persons in the Christian church Monday evening. This was more than double the total 1943 registration.

Sessions will be held tomorrow night and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, according to the Rev. Herman C. Rice, president of the association. The school is open to all who are interested in general informational and specialized courses.

Five courses are available this year, the Rev. Mr. Rice pointed out, with special instructors from Salt Lake City, Buhl, Kimberly and Twin Falls for each subject. There are text books for all subjects.

Glenns Ferry PTA Special Meet Set

GLENNS FERRY, Feb. 22—Parent-Teachers are calling a special meeting Wednesday evening, Feb. 23, for the purpose of discussing the crisis confronting the schools of Idaho.

At Twin Falls Friday, Feb. 18, a meeting was held of school men, board members, P.-T. A. officials and interested parties. There it was pointed out that Idaho would be short nearly a thousand teachers for the school year 1944-45 unless something could be done to enable the school districts to raise salaries to the point where they would be commensurate with salaries and wages in other fields today.

The local meeting to be held here Wednesday will be for the purpose of acquainting local people with the situation and to enable them, if they deem the problem serious enough, to contact the governor and the Elmore county legislators and acquaint them with the wishes or desires of the people of Hammett, King Hill and Glenns Ferry.

BEER LICENSES NEAR IN BURLEY

BURLEY, Feb. 22—Beer licenses for Burley's four pool halls, which have been without beer since Jan. 1, appear a little closer here today.

Burley city council met Monday evening for the second of three necessary readings of the ordinance and a motion was made to suspend the rule and pass the ordinance with only two readings, but the motion lacked one vote of passing.

A change was made in the proposed ordinance, making it possible to grant beer licenses to dealers only 60 days after the ordinance is violated the first time, instead of the 90 days required in the first reading.

A second offense will still require a 180 day lapse.

If the ordinance passes at the third reading, which will probably be in March, it will allow beer licenses to be granted immediately to Burley pool halls since it has been almost 60 days since the 1944 licenses were refused because of purported gambling allowed by the pool halls in 1943 under the old beer ordinance.

Pals Reunited in Brazil Chow Line

None but a soldier, newly arrived in a strange country, could understand the thrill of suddenly seeing his best friend standing in line for chow. That's how Sgt. James A. Miller, ex-Twin Falls resident, happened to meet his old buddy, Sgt. Rudolph F. Wicht, at a certain army base in Brazil.

News of the surprise meeting came through a letter from Sergeant Miller's wife to a sister in Twin Falls, Miss Miriam Allen. Almost simultaneously, word was received by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Clos, uncle and aunt of Sergeant Wicht.

Before entering the service, Miller was employed at C. C. Anderson's and later at Van Engelen's store. Wicht worked at Clos Book store for his uncle.

The electric companies belong to War has helped destroy a lot of America's old illusions. The idea that all South Sea beauties look like Dorothy Lamour. The idea that all Englishmen wear monocles and all Russians whiskers. The idea that all electric companies are the exclusive property of a handful of wealthy people.

The efficient way in which huge quantities of electricity are being delivered to roaring war plants and quiet homes—without rationing, at low pre-war prices—has given the folks on Main Street a clearer understanding of their personal interest in the electric light and power companies.

Actually, few if any other industries are so widely owned. Directly, by many thousands of individual stockholders—housewives, farmers, mechanics, factory workers, teachers. Indirectly, by the millions of savings bank depositors and insurance policyholders—which includes almost every adult American.

Utility securities are popular investments with the banks, insurance companies and fraternal orders which hold your savings in trust for you. Why? Because cheap, dependable electric service is so basic to your way of life. Because this service is provided and protected by experienced business management.

Wherever you live in America—on Main Street, Park Avenue, or RD No. 1—your money has helped to build the electric industry and you have a large stake in it.

Miss Dorothy Earl Weds Sailor Sunday Evening

Miss Dorothy Earl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Earl, Twin Falls, became the bride of Harold E. Oliphant, gunner's mate second class, now stationed at the Sun Valley naval convalescent hospital, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Oliphant, Youngstown, O., at a double ring ceremony performed at 8 p. m. Sunday, Feb. 20, in the Rogerson hotel dining room.

Harry B Jennings, justice-of-the-peace, read the wedding service in the presence of H. B. Hansard, Jr., gunner's mate, second class, Sun Valley, and Arthur C Sutton, California.

Mrs Oliphant graduated from Twin Falls high school with the class of 1943.

Gunner's Mate Oliphant attended school in Youngstown, O. before joining the navy five years ago.

When he gets his medical discharge in April the couple will go to make their home in Youngstown.

Home Nursing

A home nursing course will begin in the home nursing rooms of the Orpheum theater building on Monday, Feb. 28.

Classes will be held twice a week, Mondays and Thursdays, for a six weeks period.

Everyone interested in taking the home nursing courses has been asked to call Mrs. Loyal Perry at 1191-W, or the American Red Cross headquarters at 101.

Because of the shortage of nurses as instructors this will be the last home nursing course this spring.

Church Rites for Twin Falls Pair

Miss Beatrice Lahue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs DeWitt Lahue, Twin Falls, became the bride of Vern Petersen, son of Mr. and Mrs Louis Petersen, Twin Falls, at 8 p m Monday, Feb. 14, in the Twin Falls Church of the Nazarene.

The Rev. L S Oliver performed the ceremony before many friends and relatives of the couple.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white formal gown with a satin bodice and chiffon skirt. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a coronet of talisman roses and she carried a bouquet of roses and sweetpeas.

Her "something borrowed" was a locket belonging to her sister.

Maid of honor, Mrs. Mildred Petersen, sister of the bride, wore an aqua blue gown with a corsage of roses and sweetpeas.

Miss Vera Fields, dressed in pale pink, and Miss Marjorie Rowen, gowned in yellow, were bridesmaids. Each wore a sweetpea corsage.

Clarence Petersen, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Ushers were Glen Petersen and Earl Dougherty.

Following the ceremony the couple stood at the back of the church, under an archway of evergreen and roses flanked by lighted hearts, to receive congratulations.

Mrs Petersen is a graduate of Twin Falls high school with the class of '42. Mr. Petersen was educated in Nebraska.

A reception for close friends and relatives of the couple was held at the church parsonage. Miss Vera Anthis, Miss Edith Mae Lyda and Miss Mary Frances Bunn assisted with the serving. A three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with hearts and names, was cut and served in traditional manner by the bride.

Mr. and Mrs Petersen will make their home in Twin Falls.

CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

Many a homestead is sheltering the second generation today because of the war. The young men often married before leaving for the service and the bride went to live with his people, or her own. In either case the newly weds made the old home theirs.

Complications are bound to ensue when the young folk live with the old folks. There cannot be two heads to a household. One woman must give way to the other for the sake of harmony. As the young woman is a guest in the house, even though that house is her old home, it is she who should make the adjustments that are necessary. It is she who should shoulder all the responsibility for the smooth working of the household, eliminating herself as much as possible and being as helpful as she can be. This calls for unselfish adjustment but that is not too much to expect under the circumstances.

Baby Another Problem

When the new baby comes, the household routine must be adjusted once more. A baby in the house makes a great deal of difference to everybody in it. The whole group must now adjust to the necessities of the infant's well-being. His hours must be respected, his service—food, bottles, laundry work, care,—must have first place. All the life of the household must be adjusted to the needs of the child so that he thrives happily.

This is not so difficult as it sounds. The young mother can arrange time schedules and routines that stay set for some time to come, and the head of the household, usually the elder mother, adjust her routine to suit. But the routines must stay set and it is the duty of the younger mother to see that they are strictly followed so as not to get in the way of the main-line routine.

If bottles are to be sterilized in the evening after dinner, it will not do to let them go and do them at eight in the morning when the elder mother is clearing breakfast and preparing for the day's marketing. That brings trouble. That and the like disregard of household customs.

Behave as Guests

When the baby begins to get about the house, the young mother must take upon herself the obligation of seeing that he does not upset the whole household. He is not to get underfoot in the kitchen in working hours and he is not to creep about the dining room at mealtime, getting in the way and endangering himself and other people. He is not to disturb mealtime. A sensibly routined day settles such matters.

The elder mother's ways are to be respected. Her belongings guarded. As long as the young people remain in the house they are guests and should behave accordingly. This for the child's sake as well as for the grownups. No child thrives in an atmosphere of discord. Keep the peace, young folk.

Sunday Nuptials For Jerome Pair

JEROME, Feb. 22 — Gowned in white satin and carrying an arm bouquet of pink and white carnations, Miss Ilene Marguerite Jacobson, Jerome, became the bride of William Winterholler, Jerome, in a beautiful wedding ceremony performed by the Rev. E. J. Nauss, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. The marriage took place in the church with more than 75 relatives and friends present.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, August Jacobsen, wore a princess style, floor length gown with fingertip veil of silk and lace net. The dress was fashioned with lace yoke, long-fitted sleeves and rhinestone buttons. For her "something old," she wore a sapphire necklace and matching earrings, which had been worn by her aunt, Mrs. Norman Wilson, Ketchum on her wedding day.

The bride carried her mother's 'kerchief.

Bridesmaids

Bridesmaids were Miss Arlene Millsap, cousin of the bride, who was in a floor-length blue taffeta gown, and Miss Elizabeth Winterholler, a sister of the bridegroom, who wore a blue satin and georgette gown. Both wore pink and white sweet pea corsages.

Maid of honor was Miss Lucille Brinegar, Jerome who wore a light blue, floor length gown of georgette and pink and white sweetpeas.

Carolyn Parry dressed in a floor-length, silk crepe gown with net overskirt, was flower girl and carried a basket of mixed blossoms.

Best man was Irvin Walz, Jerome.

The bride's mother was dressed in black velvet.

Music

Mr and Mrs Herbert Duensing and Mrs. Armin Last offered music for the ceremony.

Following the ceremony a large wedding reception was held at the American Legion hall where more than 100 guests assembled. The couple was presented many gifts for their home.

The refreshment table was placed in a large V and the three tiered, decorated cake was cut in traditional fashion by the bride. A red, white and blue color theme was used in the decorations, and bouquets of seasonal flowers decorated the hall.

Family Custom

Preceding the opening of gifts, the bride's slipper was auctioned off by a friend of the couple. This is an old family custom among members of the Winterholler clan.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs Winterholler left on a brief wedding trip. They will be at home to friends on the old D. C. Summers ranch north of town.

The bride completed her education in Jerome and Hailey schools, while the groom completed his schooling in Jerome.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the occasion were Mr and Mrs. Marvin Obenchain, aunt and uncle of the bride and the maternal grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Lydia Obenchain, all of Ketchum.

Youth Fellowship Holds Box Social

Members of the Methodist Youth fellowship met in the church parlors Sunday evening for an old-fashioned box social.

The 35 members were seated at tables decorated in a patriotic theme.

During the dinner hour a short program was presented by Miss Beverly Smith, highlighted with a humorous reading by Mrs. Orvil Brooks.

Following the dinner a social hour, under the direction of Dean Patterson, was held.

Sweetheart Ball At Albion Normal

ALBION NORMAL, Feb. 22—Miss Alice Mae Scheihing, Dietrich, senior major in Intermediate Teaching, was crowned queen of the Albion campus at the Sweetheart ball, the first formal dance of the year, held Saturday evening, Feb. 19, in Cornish red hall, which, decorated to represent a great valentine with hearts and frills, became the Court of Venus for the evening.

Hostesses of the dinner-dance were members of the junior class, with Dean Ronald I. Reed as sponsor. In addition to college folk some 60 out of town guests were present.

Miss Scheihing, who had been elected by popular vote earlier in the week, was conducted to her throne by two attendants, Miss Wilma Skinner, Buhl, and Miss Mary Lou Jones, Malad. Two little pages, Bobbie and Jimmie Reed, carrying crown and scepter, led the royal procession. President Raymond H Snyder, representing the student body, presented the crown.

A brief program including music and dance numbers was presented as a floor show. Music for the dancing was provided by Don Shaw and his orchestra.

A formal dinner with about 25 outside guests was a preliminary event. Speakers included President Raymond H Snyder and Gwen Miller, East Ely, Nevada, president of the senior class.

Wedding Here for Local Girl, Soldier

Miss La Verne Rita Goddard, daughter of Mrs. Hazel Kacalek, Twin Falls, and Pfc. Elmer W. Wildrick, son of Joseph Wildrick, Easton, Penn., were united in marriage at 3 p. m. Thursday, Feb. 17, in the Twin Falls Episcopal church rectory.

The Rev. E Leslie Rolls performed the single ring ceremony in the presence of Mrs. Mildred Wilson and Mrs. Kacalek.

Old Age Policy Pays up to $100 a Month!

Needed Protection, Ages 65 to 85, Costs Only 1 Cent a Day

The Postal Life & Casualty Insurance Company, 2980 Postal Life Building, Kansas City 2, Mo., has a new accident policy for men and women of ages 65 to 85.

It pays up to $500 if killed, up to $100 a month for disability, new surgical benefits, up to $100 a month for hospital care and other benefits that so many older people have wanted.

And the cost is only 1 cent a day $3.65 a year!

Postal pays claims promptly; more than one quarter million people have bought Postal policies. This special policy for older people is proving especially attractive. No medical examination, no agents will call.

SEND NO MONEY NOW. Just write us your name, address and age—the name, address and relationship of your beneficiary—and we will send a policy for 10 days' FREE INSPECTION. No obligation. Write today.

ENDS 5-YEAR SIEGE OF CONSTIPATION!

"Now as Regular as Anyone!" Says H. C. Durand

Here's a sincere, unsolicited letter every disappointed "doser" will want to read:

"I'm 82 years old, and have been constipated over 5 years, going as much as 5 days without a movement. Pills and laxatives would relieve me only for the day I took them. Next day I'd be as bad as ever. Then I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. Am now on my second box, and as regular as anyone could want, thanks to regular use of your wonderful product!" Mr. H. C. Durand, 221 N. Columbus Ave., Freeport, Long Island, N. Y.

Sounds like "magic," doesn't it? Yet, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN really can, and does, get at a common cause of constipation—lack of certain dietary "cellulosic" elements! That's because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements—which help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out"! It is simply a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If your constipation is of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins daily. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find welcome relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

AID TO A DECISION

This fall we must elect a President. It is a duty as fateful as any that American voters have ever had to discharge, and it is not a duty to be approached with indifference.

We all know, at least basically, the crucial importance of the tasks that the next President must face. How these tasks are performed depends, of course, upon our wisdom in the choice of a man to perform them. Whoever the candidates shall be, then, we must examine their strengths and weaknesses with care, and weigh their comparative merits sanely, with as little partisan prejudice as partisan American voters can achieve.

What what are the ideal qualifications of a President which may serve as a model in deciding between the two candidates of 1944? Perhaps the best answer to that question is to be found in words spoken by Daniel Webster 112 years ago, on the centennial anniversary of the birth of George Washington:

"In the first place, all his measures were right in their intent. To commanding talents and to success, he added a disregard of self, a spotlessness of motive, a steady submission to every public and private duty, which threw forever into the shade the whole crowd of vulgar great.

"The object of his regard was the whole country. No part of it was enough to fill his enlarged patriotism. His love of glory, so far as that may be supposed to have influenced him at all, spurned everything short of general approbation. It would have been nothing to him that his partisans or his favorites outnumbered, or outvoted, or outmanaged, or outclamored those of other leaders.

"His principle it was to act right, and to trust the people for support; his principle it was not to follow the lead of sinister and selfish ends, nor to rely on the little arts of party delusion to obtain public sanction for such a course. Born for his country and mankind, he did not give up to party what was meant for mankind."

There, in the first President, as seen through the penetrating mind of Webster, is a model of political virtue which no crisis could dominate or conquer. We should all do well to study it honestly and carefully. For the 1944 candidate whose intrinsic qualities most closely resemble those described above can safely be entrusted with the job of leading this nation through the four trying years that are ahead.

It is, we believe, as simple as that.

TAKING CHANCES

The armchair general staff has been having a great time over the battle for the Anzio beachhead. With some brilliant second guessing and a few mutters about the quality of allied leadership, they have been pointing out just how the invaders should have cut the Via Appia and Via Casilina, isolated the German forces before Cassino, and executed an off-tackle smash at Rome.

Well, the allied command knew all that. But it may be necessary, as well as obvious, to remind ourselves again that campaigns are not won on paper. To borrow the title of Capt. Ralph Ingersoll's book, the battle is the payoff. It isn't a frameup. Objectives are plotted, tactics are mapped out, men and material are consigned for their execution. Then the commanders hope the enemy reacts according to plan. But they can't be sure.

The allied command gave the Salerno landing little better than a 50-50 chance of success when it was launched last fall. Presumably the odds were no shorter for the Anzio operation. They have to take chances. That's the way wars are won, and the way they are lost. But they must be taken.

Probably the allied commanders expected the Germans to pull men out of the Gustav line to fight the new landing. Instead, the opposition came from north of the beachhead, and eventually from as far north as southern France and the Balkans. Doubtless this ran contrary to allied prognosis, as did the nazis' stubborn defense of every foot of Italian soil, when they were expected to retreat to the Po or beyond.

But an enemy's sudden adaptation to equally sudden moves does not figure into the grand strategy of the armchair general staff. They leap ahead of a new development, stick pins in the map at points of ultimate objective, and expect nothing serious to interfere.

Before we win, the allied command may make some more "mistakes" to upset the armchair generals. But we don't think that they will look too serious if we compare them with the intuitive fuehrer's classic blunders. The German army, for all its toughness, is still headed by the military genius (and ex-corporal) who thought that Britain could be knocked out by bombing civilians; who thought that his Egyptian campaign could wait while he helped pal Mussolini out of a Balkan jam; who thought to find a Russian army with obsolete guns and planes, and the ghosts of purged generals in command; who thought that Japan would tie America's hands completely in the Pacific.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

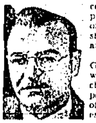
SHUDDER—Democratic campaigners will bid for conservative support in the presidential contest with warnings that "wild men" will head numerous key committees if the opposition wins control of the legislative arm. Coupled with F. D. R.'s abandonment of reform, this issue, they figure, should be good for millions of balance-of-power votes.



Ray Tucker

In a G. O. P. senate, for instance, Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota would supplant Carter Glass as chairman of appropriations which passes on the amount and the use of federal funds. "Moneyed interests," according to Mr. Nye's backers, intend to spend large sums to defeat him. If he should lose out next fall, the place would go to Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, in case of a Republican victory.

Businessmen, it is said, shudder at the North Dakotan's agrarian and nationalistic views, as revealed in his sponsorship of the munitions inquiry and his isolationist stand prior to Pearl Harbor. The house of Morgan was the chief target in the series of events which preceded the first World war.

REBELS—Two other fiery insurgents, who would be elevated to central roles in a parliamentary upset are Sen. Hiram W. Johnson of California and Robert M. La Follette, Jr., Wisconsin.

Although enthusiastic Rooseveltians in the early days of the administration they turned against the President because of his [illegible] program. With James A. Reed of Missouri and the late William Edgar Borah of Idaho, Mr. Johnson led the battalion of death, which blocked approval of the League of Nations. The younger man shares his views on these questions.

These two men would chairman respectively the foreign relations and the finance committee. The big American from the coast thus would exercise vast authority over ratification of treaties and postwar plans. The middle west Progressive would dominate the group that handles tax and tariff measures for the upper chamber.

TORCH—The views of this trio, Nye, Johnson and La Follette, have frequently worried the reactionary elements normally associated with the party of McKinley, Coolidge and Hoover. The men stem from the branch influenced by "Teddy" Roosevelt and "Old Bob" La Follette. But it is doubtful whether G. O. P. contributors and vote-getters would go Democratic and thus help to reinstate the present regime merely to spite these three.

Chairmanship prospects in the house are more pleasant for the conservative-minded. Penny-pinching John Taber of upstate New York would become head of appropriations. Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey, formerly John D. Rockefeller's pastor and an internationalist, would replace Sol Bloom of New York as top man on foreign affairs.

Harold Knutson of Minnesota, who carries the taxation torch for industry on ways and means, would supervise that agency. Hamilton Fish, F. D. R.'s unfriendly neighbor, would emerge as key figure on rules.

SPAT—The war labor board's actions on wage and hour matters have made it almost as unpopular with leaders of the organized workmen as is Secretary Frances Perkins. Now this agency has lost supporters as a result of its treatment of several hundred representatives of management.

Chairman William H. Davis recently summoned them to Washington to discuss procedure in hearing Philip Murray's C. I. O. petition for a 17-cent-an-hour pay increase in the steel industry. The operators came from as far north as Bethlehem, as far south as Birmingham and as far west as the Mississippi river. Harassed by army-navy plans for speed, they nevertheless took off several days and spent fairly large sums for transportation, hotel and sundry expenses.

The WLB-ers kept them hanging around the capital for two days. The meeting itself lasted only a few hours and was unproductive of any vital decisions. Federal negotiators had not even conducted a preliminary investigation to discover how many and what types of plants were affected. The government had no data showing whether a factory was engaged in producing raw steel or fabricating the material. As a result, some of the visitors found that in their particular cases the trip was altogether unnecessary.

Only consolation was the chairman's spat with the C. I. O. president. When Mr. Murray urged that the first panel hearing be held in Washington, where facilities for national publicity are more plentiful, rather than in Pittsburgh, Mr. Davis remarked dryly, "I imagine that if we had suggested Washington, you would have wanted us to meet in Pittsburgh!"

HUDDLED—President Roosevelt recently spurned the advice of White House associates in order to make a gesture of friendliness to forlorn France. As one who spent many months in that country, he has a keen appreciation of the French people's sensitive reaction to the niceties.

On one of the bitterest days of the winter, Mr. Roosevelt insisted on presenting personally a warship to our ally. It involved a long and cold ride of several miles to the navy yard, which is located in the most frigid section of the capital. Again disregarding the counsel of his friends, he made the trip in an open car, while hardy sailors of both nations were huddled warmly in a heated limousine.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

MUSEUM IN WAR

In itself a vivid world, a wonder-house of earth, sea and sky, the Museum of Natural History is one of our best and greatest universities. In one way or another it reaches many millions of people in the course of a year. Its versatility and adaptability to new situations are remarkable. Its director has just told us a little of its services to the armed forces. It has prepared an illustrated manual of celestial navigation and instructions about what should be done in emergencies when instruments are deficient or wanting. It gives instruction in camouflage. It provides exhibits, "museumettes," for the identification of races in the east and in the Pacific.

To the air force ground crews it furnishes displays of the various types of flying. It sends "museumettes" to Guadalcanal, New Caledonia, New Guinea and the Fijis that illustrate and explain malaria. It spreads information about drinking water. It tells about typhus. Nearly 14,000 men in uniform have heard a special course of lectures at the Planetarium, and almost 24,000 have seen its shows for nothing.

A curious service falls to the Museum anthropologists. Relatives of soldiers bring artifacts sent from Africa and the South Sea. The scientists say where these come from. Thereby the relatives know in a general way where their friends are. Some soldiers are working for the Museum in the field, collecting beetles, butterflies, bird songs. You wouldn't think that the institution doing this extra work looks forward to a decrease of $150,000 in its income this year.—New York Times.

DAMAGING PUBLIC PROPERTY

Just why some people take a moronic delight in damaging property is hard to explain, in fact it can't be explained, but it happens never-the-less. Jerome school buildings have had windows broken by vandals throwing rocks, business houses have to be on constant guard to prevent wanton destruction and many tales of malicious destruction are heard from time to time.

One of the projects which many people would like to see is a public rest room, yet one of the strongest deterrents against such a worthy facility is the well-known weakness of the public to destroy and waste. In support of this argument, we quote the following editorial from the Minidoka County News at Rupert. As you know, Rupert has a splendid community building with rest rooms, recreational facilities . . . a really fine building for public use, yet read what happens:

"City officials are quite disturbed over the treatment given the rest rooms and other parts of the civic auditorium. They look at the defaced walls, the broken grill work, marred doors and probably begin to doubt the wisdom of such a building.

"The damage, it is suspected, is done at night when other parts of the building are unoccupied. Why is it that so many people, both old and young, seem to delight in damaging public property?"—Jerome North Side News.

CLAPPER'S OBSERVATIONS
NATIONS AT WAR

(Editor's note: The following written by Mr. Clapper before the battle of the Marshall islands in which he lost his life has just been forwarded by the navy.)

ABOARD AN AIRCRAFT CARRIER, SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC—Few outside of professional navy people can fully know what is involved in [illegible] the stirring of [illegible] ship especially of a new [illegible] such as this one.

Raymond Clapper

A month after this ship was launched the captain came on [illegible] board at the shipyard. From then until the [illegible] of her [illegible] he and his staff worked at [illegible] the ship. When the [illegible] was finished [illegible] of the crew aboard and a month was spent in cruising, putting stores aboard, testing equipment. It took [illegible] to load the ammunition with the crew working until [illegible] of 2 a. m., the captain said.

When the ship was transferred to the Pacific she was used on one run as a transport and carried not only extra planes but 2,500 navy personnel, which with the crew meant a total of more than 5,000 men aboard. [illegible] sleeping in passageways and on deck and running the mess at double capacity.

This one had its first action on Armistice day at Rabaul. It was in action on Christmas day and on New Year's day. As one of the gun crew pointed out, "We hit on holidays."

"I said the next holiday was Lincoln's birthday. "We don't wait for that," the gunner said. "We'll make our own holidays."

The question of leadership was discussed by a chaplain the other day when he was telling me the poignant story of an airman who had become afraid. The chaplain said a majority of the men on this ship had never been to sea before they set out last summer and that an even larger proportion had never been aboard a carrier. He said few of those aboard were aware of the change that was taking place as the green crew shook down into high efficiency until they had their baptism of fire at Rabaul—when 150 Japanese planes, including many dreaded "Bettys" or low bombers, were fought off with heavy losses to the Japs, and not one man pulled away from his post during the engagement.

The skipper who has been the subject of these observations volunteered to me from all over the ship is not an impressive-looking man. He is lean, like most fliers, and very bald. He has humorous blinking eyes, and a rather slow, drawling speech.

Perhaps a part of his success is due to his exceptional experience in this war with carriers. The captain was executive officer of a carrier operating in the Atlantic. Then he was given command of the first carrier to be converted from a cargo vessel. Then he was chief of staff to an air command, and most of this tour of duty was spent at sea. Under that particular command air cover was provided for the Casablanca phase of the north African invasion.

Thus at 47, after 24 years of flying, he has had experience in this war on both big and small carriers and as a chief of staff.

* * *

He is prouder of this ship than of anything else that will ever come to him. Last summer he was able to anchor it in a river almost in front of his home.

"I couldn't help showing my ship off for the family," he said.

OLD RADIOS — AND UNCLE'S SAILOR BOYS

The Junior Chamber of Commerce said would we help the convalescent sailors at the Sun Valley naval hospital. You should ask such a question, Jaycee Charley Sieber, tsk.

Here's the dope.

Ens. F. G. Collester, the educational service officer, says the navy and marine patients want to start a radio class. But they can't get radio parts.

Anybody with radios workable or unworkable, or old radio parts can help out tremendously by donating same. The lads need such a course both to keep them occupied and for what they'll learn.

So look in back cellars and attics for old radios. Take small ones to the Chamber of Commerce office next time you're downtown. If your old radio is too large to carry, call the C. of C. at 578 and they'll arrange to have the radio picked up. If you're out of Twin Falls a goodly distance, ship the things care of the Junior Chamber at the C. of C. bailiwick.

Let's flood the boys with radio parts.

A DOUGHTY LADY

This, we say, is a sister worth having.

Sleuth R advises us that a young sailor just back from active duty in the Pacific got himself into a crap game the other night at a certain club in this general vicinity.

He lost $159.

His sister, a lass who fears nobody, bearded the club proprietor in his lair — and forced the guy to give the money back.

ON SHE GOES!

Dear Third Row:

Apropos your item on Bill Hollenbeck, and the reply by "The Major," did you know Hollenbeck, Bean and the farmers were at it again at the Cal Lindsey sale? Yessir — this time $88 for the Red Cross war fund. There was a side delivery rake up for sale, and you know how scarce they are. When the bids hit the ceiling price of $115, there were 88 guys thought enough of that rake to pay $1 each for a crack at it. So the Red Cross benefits this time. I'd say the thing is assuming proportions of a movement that ought to win national publicity for our Magic Valley.

NAME, VERY

We can just imagine the gray hairs our T-N composing room gents would get if an estate notice came in such as the one inflicted on a linotyper back on the Philadelphia Record.

That legal notice concerned the estate of the late Joseph Williams Kolodziepska (also known as Ignatius Kolodziepski, Joseph Williams, Joseph Kolodziepska, Ygancy Kolodieyski, Ignatius Kolodieyski, Ignastius Kolodzieyski, Ignatius Kolodziepska, Ignacy Kolodziejski and Ignatius Koledzieski).

By then the linotype operator was chewing aspirin by the mouthful.

FAMOUS LAST LINE

". . . Le'see, this is deductible, this ain't, this may be — aw, nuts! . . ."

THE GENTLEMAN IN THE THIRD ROW

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

WASHINGTON—Well, personally, I think it is rather dirty pool to mess around in a man's personal and social activities as a means of political or journalistic repartee, and I felt some qualms in writing about Marshall Field's little party for a matter of some 1,500 politicians, statesmen, jurists and journalists last Sunday evening. Neither do I consider it to be any of my business that a man spends an amount of money, whether $3,500 or $10,000, the guessing range of the cost of the grog and whatnot, on a large and ornate drinking in a big hotel, or five bucks for a tube of household whisky for himself and the old lady on a Saturday night.

Westbrook Pegler

If he wants to spend it that way instead of buying bonds, that is a man's privilege and in this particular case you have to admit that a large part of the tab which Mr. Field lifted that night had already gone into old Sam's damper in the form of liquor taxes and for good, too, not merely on loan at interest.

But this Mr. Field has been playing low-down dirty pool ever since he moved into New York and set up his little Whatzit manned by a staff so largely composed of Muscovites that in no time at all, the Americans in the newspaper business around town were calling it the New York Izvestia and The Pravda. It is without question the nastiest, unfairest publication ever offered for general circulation in my time in the newspaper business, which runs from the summer of 1910 to the date of these presents, and is fairly comparable in its method and tone to the journalism of Julius Streicher, the Hitlerian Jew-baiter, and Charlie Coughlin's little Detroit mash-note.

It adopted abuse as a policy and method, and it participated with a group of communist party-line union goons in a strong-arm raid on some private premises by night one time after confidential information had been betrayed to the goons by a faithless secretary. Any publication which, in this day and age, as distinguished from the rowdy old punch-and-tumble era in Chicago, would crash into a man's office and bust up the joint in concert with a crowd of obvious bolos certainly invites watching.

There is a distinct contrast between Mr. Field's New York thing and his full-size paper in Chicago called The Sun. The Sun, while not at all original, is well-edited and reasonably decent, although strongly partisan on the new deal side, and men who have Mr. Field's confidence have said that The Sun is really his pride and joy. Incidentally, it is a matter of passing interest that the Chicago Daily News will not publish pieces critical of Mr. Field's operations in new deal journalism through his New York outlet, he being a valued tenant of the News building in Chicago, and of its mechanical plant.

But I just wonder who Mr. Fields thinks he is anyway. He is sensitive himself, but exercises a right to smear, sneer, insinuate and otherwise try to injure the reputations of men who by the measure of work and achievement are much better than himself and to call people and institutions anti-semites who are nothing of the kind although a large portion of his own fantastic fortune was derived from an institution which for a long time did discriminate against Jews in employment. To hear him tell it in New York you would get an impression that he associated intimately with Negroes and that there was a correct proportion of Negroes on his editorial pay rolls but if you believe that you are just being naive.

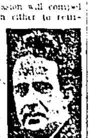
Field's communists are masters of a dirty European technique by which they can take the innocent fact that a man stopped in for a drink on the way home and there at the bar was introduced to Ham Fish, and give it the business in such a way that you get an impression that they were plotting to turn the country over to Hitler.

As I said, I believe Mr. Field was within his rights in giving his party, but if Tom Girdler had been the host, or Frank Gannett or Tom Dewey, his communists would have angled the story to convey the idea that here was an outrageous brawl, with cockeyed economic royalists bumping into doors and walking up the walls, while soldiers die in foxholes; and that the whole thing was the kickoff in a campaign to re-establish Negro slavery, massacre all Jews and send Coughlin or Gerald Smith to the White House on a horse of the same color.

ANALYZING CURRENT NEWS
FROM NEW YORK

EXPERTS—Before summer comes the tempo of invasion will compel the administration either to reinstate the ban on pleasure driving or to make a new cut in gasoline rations.



Albert Lemon

The shortage, however temporary, will be serious. But the Washington ballyhoo of alarmists — that the proposed federally built pipe line in Saudi Arabia is necessary because we shall have exhausted our domestic resources in a score years—is not accepted by leading petroleum experts, as was explained in this space.

But these authorities do advocate the encouragement of private capital in developing oil properties throughout the world to make as many new fields as possible accessible to us.

BOOM — We shall need every available pint to satisfy our growing wants. Germany's great reliance on the Ploesti wells has often been emphasized. But the American production of 4,200,000 barrels a day in 10 days can equal the entire annual output of Rumania.

In two and one-half days we could supply the normal yearly requirement of Italy, a manufacturing nation. Our per capita consumption is 450 gallons; that of Russia—the second greatest oil country—50 gallons.

Petroleum, in addition to providing fuel for cars, factories, planes, ships and household heaters, is a source of ethyl alcohol. Two-thirds of our 800,000 tons of synthetic rubber is made of derivities as is four-fifths of the high explosive used in air bombs. Crude will be the base of many new chemical substances after fighting stops.

Some of these demands will diminish in peacetime but others, like stocks requisitioned for aviation, may boom.

DICTATE—It is doubtful whether the suggested conduit from the Persian gulf to the Mediterranean will be of much service in this war. It would take three times as long to construct such a system as to lay a similar one here. When the twenty-six "Big Inch" is completed, with an outlet in Palestine, the struggle will probably have shifted to another sector.

Insiders believe the real purpose of the deal is to introduce Uncle Sam as a partner in the oil business. All petroleum resources in Russia are owned by the Kremlin. Downing street, through title to a majority of stock in the Anglo-Iranian Oil company, is waist-deep in the industry. Washington, by financing the desert project, can dictate certain sales policies.

SCANDALS — Most businessmen vigorously oppose such control. Many economists, however, maintain that the day has passed for private corporations to be entrusted with the great affairs of oil, rubber, copper, quinine, tin, mercury and other overseas commodities on which the life of this nation may depend.

They argue that hereafter the state and the independent capitalist must cooperate in the foreign field; that tomorrow's course should not be one of "rugged individualism" or of government ownership but that there should be teamwork somewhere between the two extremes. Had such an arrangement been in practice, they insist, there would have been no such German chemical trust scandals as were uncovered in American enterprises.

The expected arrival of a British mission, to be followed by a Soviet delegation, to discuss the world petroleum situation, should bring matters to a head.

HOME — Mail—more than anything else—can mitigate the loneliness of our boys in Iceland.

A lad, typical of the southern mountaineers, could drill a dime at a hundred yards with an army rifle and outmarch any G.I. in his outfit. But he was the only man in the company who never received even a postcard.

One day he asked a New York soldier, "Can I take a look at one of them things you all think is so all-fired important—one of them letters?"

His friend showed him a message from a Greenwich village girl, filled with bright gossip. The other devoured every word and finally remarked wistfully, "It's sure right nice, ain't it?"

The Manhattanite described the episode to his correspondent, who made it known to some of her chums. A few weeks later when the mailbag arrived in the frozen north it contained a dozen envelopes addressed to the lonely hill billy. His hands shook so with happy excitement that he could scarcely read. "Look," he shouted to his pal, "I reckon now I got folks back home too."

HOSPITALS—The military forces use a "baby X-ray" or improved fluoroscope, which not only locates at once bits of steel embedded in wounds but also operates a device with cross-hairs that stamps iodine markings in two places; a surgeon by sighting along these "bench-mark" stains can find exactly where a foreign body is hidden. It has postwar possibilities for rural districts far from hospitals.

ACEQUIA

Henry Richert and Lee Green drove to Corvallis, Ore., where they joined their wives who have been visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Winniford. Mrs. Richert, who has been suffering from ear trouble, will undergo an operation. They plan to return upon her recovery.

Mrs. Arlo Kent is visiting her husband at Kemmerer, Wyo. Her mother, Mrs. Alma Phillips, Rupert, is caring for the Kent children during their mother's absence.

Harold Moncur, who has been in the army for almost two years, is spending a short furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Moncur.

CASTLEFORD

"Grandma" Garner recently celebrated her 82nd birthday.

Donald F. Neuman, former Castleford resident, has been promoted from fireman first class to machinist's mate third class in the U. S. navy.

Mrs. Norman Thompson and son have returned from the Twin Falls hospital and are staying at the home of her mother, Mrs. Leo Lewis.

A son was born Feb. 12 to Lieut. and Mrs. Edison McMurtry at the Fitzsimmons hospital in Denver, Colo.

Richard Charles Mayar leaves Feb. 23 for Farragut to begin his "boot" camp training.

CAGE TOURNEYS OPEN AT KIMBERLY, HAILEY TONIGHT

ON THE SPORT FRONT

Always willing to appease the fans' desires, Ye Olde Sport Scrivener is going to sit himself out on the limb today and give some enterprising Magic Valley team an opportunity to saw it off. And then if the pudgy one's great, big fall, like that of Humpty Dumpty, gives his readers a great, big laugh he'll be amply rewarded. The Magic Valley needs a few great, big laughs of the belly variety these days—even if they have to be at the expense of this ancient word puddler.

YOSS is going to pick the entrants in the district class B tournament to be held at Wendell on March 8, 9 and 10 after, in his mind's eye, eliminating all but nine teams from the five sub-districts to be held in the Magic Valley this week.

At the outset the pudgy one desires to set forth that what he has to say is backed by no personal favoritism. He wishes it were possible that all of them could enter the district, as he believes would be the case if the 24 tournament teams were scattered about the state. They are that strong.

The selection of the eight or nine teams for the district would be less difficult were it not for that Donnybrook will open in L. A. Thomas' pride and joy, the new Kimberly gymnasium.

The two teams that will go from the south side sub-district there might be any of the six—Castleford, Eden, Murtaugh, Hazelton, Hollister or Kimberly. The pudgy one is picking Castleford and Murtaugh, principally because both teams are on the uprade after uncertain starts. Three weeks ago he would have selected Hazelton and Eden but they slipped somewhat, while Kimberly will have to battle the law of averages after six straight victories and that may be too much. And, too, Hollister might be in there for a couple of upsets.

In the Wood River sub-district the winner appears to be Hailey which has been coming along fast. However, Gooding State School with a great player in Lawrence Neta, has a good chance.

The Heyburn Panthers defeated each of their Mini-Cassia sub-district rivals twice during the regular season and that alone should make them overwhelming favorites to triumph at Rupert. Declo finished second in the Mini-Cassia conference but three of Coach L. D. Andersen's players are down with the influenza and if they are unable to come into the tournament at their best the way may be paved for Albion's march to the district.

Glenns Ferry Pilots are the class of the King Hill sub-district and should be stronger than ever with their six-foot-four-inch center John Shrum. Back Hagerman should be the second team out. Wendell has been showing improvement and may win its way into district although it will be entitled to enter anyway because of its position as the district tournament host team.

In the north side sub-district no one sees anybody but the Shoshone Redskins, who have won 19 straight games, six of them by not allowing a point to their foes in the first quarter.

So it appears that the lineup at Wendell on March 8 should be Shoshone, Heyburn, Declo or Albion, Glenns Ferry, Hagerman, Hailey, Murtaugh and Castleford.

But all of this carries Ye Olde Sport Scrivener down memory lane and back to his native Illinois. Centralia, a few years ago had a team that went unbeaten against teams selected from all parts of the state as its strongest. During the period Dwight Eddleman, who would now be playing at Mr. Pot Shots' University of Illinois, had averaged better than 22 points a game for 40 contests. Then came the state tournament and Centralia was eliminated by a team that had been runner-up in its own regional.

Triumph Miners Win Two Games

KETCHUM, Feb. 22 — A large crowd was present at the Ketchum gym to witness two basketball games in which the Triumph Miners downed the officers' team of the Sun Valley naval hospital, 44 to 32, and then defeated Carey, 47 to 40. Carlson of the officers' team, a former University of Illinois star, stood out for his team.

JACK TO MEET DAVIS

2,500 See Globe Trotters Fun Way to 67-45 Basket Victory

A large part of the Magic Valley became basketball-minded last night as more than 2,500 persons squeezed into the Twin Falls high school gymnasium to see the Harlem Globe Trotters burlesque their way to a 67-45 victory over an all-star Twin Falls aggregation assembled for the contest.

The all-stars, coached by the Bruin mentor J. Stuart "Monk" Halliday and captained by Al Westergren, former all-Pacific coast guard, were no match for the Globe Trotters, crack Negro players drawn from all parts of the United States, but they proved worthy foils for the visitors' basketball legerdemain.

For a time the large crowd that occupied every seat and all standing room in the gymnasium might have believed it was about to witness an upset when the all-stars, with Corky Carlson, former Washington State star, popping in three long shots in a row, took a 9-2 lead. And the Harlemites probably thought the same, for the next few minutes saw them play their best basketball of the evening. It was serious business with the Globe Trotters until they had a safe lead.

All-Stars Befuddled

Their quick passing often befuddled the all-stars, several of whom spent some time looking for the basketball when it was held atop their heads or lying on the floor in front of them. Many of the juggling tricks seen in the House of David baseball team's pepper games have been adapted to basketball by the Harlem club.

But the Globe Trotters and all-stars didn't put on the whole show. The fans found plenty to interest them in the Twin Falls Cubs-Rupert junior varsity game, which the Cubs won 32-22. The game was staged as a preliminary attraction.

Players Late

Only five of the Rupert players arrived in time for the game. The others were late because of two tire blowouts suffered by the car in which they were riding. However, the five jumped into a 5-1 lead in the first quarter and had the Cubs tied 10-10 at the half. The junior Pirates grabbed a 19-14 lead in the third quarter but in the final frame Coach Stanley Mettler's future varsity stars put on one of the greatest scoring exhibitions seen at the gym this season. They scored 12 points in the first three minutes of the quarter.

Funds derived from the program will be used to purchase baseball uniforms and other paraphernalia for the Bruins.

Hailey Skier 4th In Alta Jumping

HAILEY, Feb. 22—Les Outzs, jr., has returned from the intermountain junior ski meet held at Alta, Utah. He was the only representative from Idaho to compete.

In the combined downhill slalom he placed seventh and in jumping, fourth.

Globe Trotter Fun

The Harlem Globe Trotters who appeared before a near-record crowd of 2,500 hilarious fans in the Twin Falls high school gymnasium Monday night were full of this kind of stuff. Al Price, brilliant Harlem forward, is shown making a basket while perched atop the shoulders of a teammate. Nearby are two members of the rival team, the Twin Falls All-Stars—Corky Carlson with his arm over his eyes and Al Westergren in front of the basket. (Staff Photo-Engraving)

Five Sub-District Events Set for Week

The first of the five Magic Valley sub-district basketball tournaments from which will come the eight or nine entrants in the Class B district tourney to be held in Wendell, will open tonight — the south side at Kimberly and the Wood River at Hailey.

The Mini-Cassia, to be held at the Rupert civic auditorium, and King Hill sub-district at Glenns Ferry, will open tomorrow night, while the north side at Dietrich will open on Thursday night.

FIRST ROUND ROBIN

KIMBERLY, Feb. 22 — The first round robin tournament in the history of the south side sub-district will open at Kimberly high school's new gymnasium here tonight with L. A. Thomas, the Kimberly superintendent, in charge and Mortie Roth, Hunt and Floyd Bowers, Buhl, the referees.

The tournament championship also will be decided in Kimberly for the first time.

Only night games will be played in the tournament, which will show eight evenly matched teams, as indicated by their pre-tournament records. Another feature will be the presence of bands from all but one of the schools.

In the first game, at 7 p. m., Hazelton will meet Hollister. In the second, at 8 p. m., Murtaugh will oppose Castleford and in the final, at 9 p. m., the contending teams will be Kimberly and Eden.

The ladies of the Kimberly churches and Grange will serve lunch in the banquet room, which is situated under the stage of the new gymnasium, during the five days of the tournament.

GOODING STATE DARKHORSE

HAILEY, Feb. 22 — The Gooding State School, which none of the other contestants has met, has been labelled the darkhorse of the Wood River sub-district tournament which will open here at 8 p. m. today.

E. O. Foster, Hailey superintendent will be the tournament manager, with Walt Olds and Earl Williams, both of Jerome, the referees.

Two games will be played each night and, if an extra game is necessary, as often is the case in a double elimination event, it will be played at 8 p. m. Saturday.

On the opening night Carey will oppose the Gooding State School in the first game, while in the second Bellevue and Hailey will be the contending quintets.

VANDALS

SEATTLE, Feb. 22 (AP)—With only one of its navy veterans in the lineup, the University of Washington outclassed Idaho's third place Vandals last night, 64 to 32, for its 11th straight victory in the Coast conference northern division basketball race.

HAILEY

Mrs. Ralph C. Griffin, who was confined in the Hailey clinical hospital for observation and treatment several days last week, has returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKay, where she is improving gradually. Pfc. Ralph Griffin is stationed in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shirts are the parents of a son, born Feb. 12 at the Hailey clinical hospital.

The home of Mrs. Laura Jackson was the scene of a gathering of 19 friends of Mrs. Marion L. Bingham, the former Betty Crocker. The occasion was a miscellaneous shower for the bride. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Laura Jackson, Mrs. Douglas Miller, Mrs. John Walker and Mrs. Michael Hemovitch.

Mrs. Paul Jones, with her two children, Julianne and Francis, left for Philadelphia to be with Lieut. Paul Jones, who is stationed there. They will remain until Lieutenant Jones receives further orders.

Blaine Tops War Bond Sale Quota

HAILEY, Feb. 22—Blaine county was "over the top" on the fourth war loan drive when the curtain went down. In fact she more than "went over." Our quota was $194,000. Our sales were $223,223.00.

The quotas for the various towns were as follows: Bellevue and Gannett, $35,000; Carey and Muldoon, $30,000; Hailey, $85,000; Ketchum, $30,000; Picabo, $14,000. Bonds sold in these districts totaled $187,083, which, added to Union Pacific railroad, $16,000; West Coast Power company, $10,000; state of Idaho, $4,340; Standard Oil company, $1,000, Continental Oil company, $500; Shell Oil company, $300; Federal Land bank, $3,000 and Idaho Livestock Production Credit association for $1,800 made the grand total.

All of those who have not redeemed their pledges or who can buy series "E" bonds between now and Feb. 29 are urged to do so as credit will be given on this drive for these amounts.

Navigation Course

BUHL, Feb. 21 — Aviation Cadet Hans Nichel, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Nichel, route one, Buhl, has begun an 18-week course in advanced aerial navigation at the army air force navigation school, San Marcos, Tex. Upon graduation he will be commissioned a second lieutenant, or appointed a flight officer.

FILER

Col. E. O. Walter will conduct a Pacific Northwest Guernsey Breeders sale at Chehalis, Wash., April 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Edwards gave a no-host family dinner party recently honoring Pfc. Edward Edwards, who was en route from Seattle, Wash., to Yuma, Ariz., for further training.

A family dinner was given for Mrs. Louisa Mosley recently on her 83rd birthday.

William Witters has returned to Camp Claiborne, La.

Jack Jordan, seaman second class, stationed at Ottumwa, Ia., is home for a brief furlough before going to Davenport, Ia.

Seaman Second Class Talmadge "Doc" Hawkins, stationed at Farragut, is home on leave.

FARM IMPLEMENT SALE

Sponsored by T. F. C. of C., U. S. D. A. War Board, T. F. Implement Dealers

This date—February 25, 1944—will be important in the history of our tract. For on that date will be assembled thousands of now unused implements, farm machinery and tools in a giant public auction sponsored by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, the U.S.D.A. War Board and the Twin Falls Implement Dealers. The date is of further importance because when these thousands of implements are redistributed over our tract, Magic Valley will again be in a position to produce a record breaking crop. Our crops are important—and those crops demand tools for production. The second Magic Valley Farm Implement Sale gives hundreds of farmers a chance to secure those implements.

So if you have idle, used implements about your place bring them in—you'll receive a profitable return on them and you will make some other farmer's production job a lot easier. The Food for Victory program of our United States needs your help.

SALE STARTS
10:00 A.M.
BRING IN IMPLEMENTS NOW

The earlier you bring in your implements the easier will be the tremendous job of properly checking them in. An attendant is on hand each day at the Williams machinery lot—3rd Ave. and 3rd St. S.—where the big public sale will be held, to check them in. You are urged to bring them in NOW!

TOMORROW FAIR

By Winifred Halsted

Copyright, 1943, Winifred Halsted— Distributed, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Kitty Bishop comes to the suburban home of her brother, Ben Graham, and his wife, Peg, to recuperate from her sudden divorce from Collins Bishop, a meteorically successful young lawyer. Kitty had rebelled when the increasing importance of his career made him apparently neglect her. The first evening of her stay with the Grahams she meets ebullient Mac MacGregor and hen-pecked Randall Seaton and makes a hit with them both. Peg is worried because of Mag Seaton. A fire on Sunday afternoon provides excitement and the town turns out for it.

"Oh Mac," said Mag Seaton insistently, "I found that book! Drop in and pick it up when you have a chance."

"Thank you, Maggie, my darling," said Mac. "I'll do that. How about the new arrival? Weren't we right last night? And you thought we were exaggerating!"

Kitty protested that her head would be turned and the look in Mag's eye made her edge hastily out from under the demonstrative arm Mac had laid around her shoulders. Fortunately, Ben created a diversion by returning from a tour of inspection. He reported that there wasn't much damage and that everyone had had a lot of wholesome fun.

Randall Seaton asked Ben if he'd seen Johnny anywhere around.

"No," said Ben, "but they're all over the place and under everybody's feet. He's probably up a ladder helping the firemen."

"Johnny was reading when we left," said Mag. "You saw him, Randall."

"I know, but I hoped—"

Randall's troubled frown caught Peg Graham's eye. She didn't blame him for being distressed about his 12-year-old son who behaved so unlike a 12-year-old. She saw Randall turn companionably to Kitty and the frown smooth out as he listened to her.

"Well," said Ben, "how about everybody coming home with us and resting the feet?"

The fire had dwindled to nothing but a sad little hole in the Tompkins' roof and a faint charred smell in the air. The firemen began to stow away their paraphernalia and an anticlimactic lassitude hung over the scene. Peg privately thought it might have been all for the best if they had all drifted off on their separate ways but she echoed Ben's *general invitation with dutiful cor*diality. The usually indifferent Randall, instead of letting Mag decide for him, acquiesced with enthusiasm.

Back at the Grahams, Mag Seaton elbowed her husband's answer to Ben's question out of the way and ordered up beer for him instead of rye. Kitty had gathered from Peg's hints that Mag was no doubt in the right about Randall and rye, but she also thought Mag certainly went about being right in the wrong way . . . Mag was being feverishly bright, with Mac's willing help. Randall talked to Kitty about contentment.

"I wonder what it is," he said thoughtfully.

"I thought I knew," said Kitty, "but it's an elusive thing."

"We're restless souls, Kitty; you and I. I'm sorry you are. It's not fun."

"I'm not really," said Kitty. "I'm sure I'm not. But—"

"You mean you could be contented if you found the right place? Don't laugh, but I still think I could be too."

"I shan't laugh," promised Kitty.

For an instant Randall laid his hand on hers, as though they'd signed a pact.

Mag Seaton fumbled in returning the repartee she and Mac had been tossing back and forth between them like hot cakes. Her attention wandered. Randall and Kitty on an almost visible island of their own were happy and absorbed. Peg Graham watched Mag watch Randall and Kitty. She saw something flare in Mag's eyes, a bright flag of dan*ger,* warning that too much was too much.

Peg glanced hopefully at Ben, but ever calm and unreliable he was cheerfully leafing through the book section of the paper looking for a paragraph he wanted to show Mac. Exasperated but of necessity resourceful, Peg raised her voice and called casually, "Kitty, have you—"

"Oh don't disturb them," protest*ed Mag* acidly. "It's really too pretty to spoil! What time is it, Mac? Heavens! Not really? 'Bye Peg, thanks for the drink, Ben."

Mag moved so quickly that the front door had closed decidedly behind her before Ben emerged fully from the paper.

"Hey," he said, "what struck her all of a sudden?"

"I can't imagine," said Peg coldly.

Mac's eyes were glittering with interest. "Eagle Scout MacGregor," he announced, "reporting for duty!"

He sauntered across the room, tapped Randall on the shoulder and said, "Move over, it's my turn. Re*member* your wife? Well she just left."

"What?" said Randall, and jumped up, tense and disconcerted. "Why didn't she—"

"She did, in a way. Waste no time my friend!"

Kitty looked at Peg in distress as Randall made a hasty, awkward exit.

"I didn't realize I was being stupid," she said apologetically. "It was just that . . ."

Peg's exasperation faded and she thought she understood what Kitty had left unsaid.

"But where did Mag disappear to?" Kitty asked Mac.

"I think," he answered confident*lally,* "that she's home getting ready to light a fire under Randall! That's two fires in one day. Doremus something new has been added!"

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS

AMENDED PETITION

In the District Court of the Eleventh Judicial District of the State of Idaho, in and for Twin Falls county.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CHANGE OF NAME OF JAMES WILLIAM HINTON

COMES NOW the above named James William Hinton and Jennie S. Spafford the mother of said James William Hinton and respectfully show:

I.

That James William Hinton was born at Twin Falls, Idaho, November 8, 1928, and he now resides at Twin Falls, Idaho.

II.

That Petitioner Jennie S. Spafford (formerly Jennie S. Hinton) is the mother of the said James William Hinton and now resides at Twin Falls, Idaho. That William Frank Hinton is the father of the above named James William Hinton and his last known address was Grass Valley, California.

III.

Petitioners make this application for the purpose of having the name of said James William Hinton changed to James Henry Spafford for the reason that for several years last past the said James William Hinton has assumed the name of James Henry Spafford and has been known and identified by said name.

WHEREFORE, Petitioners pray for an Order of the above entitled Court changing the name of James William Hinton to James Henry Spafford.

Checking Farm Implements for Feb. 25 Sale

E. C. Vawdrey, left, committee chairman for the second wartime farm machinery and implement sale scheduled Friday morning, Feb. 25, and W. E. (Bill) Taylor, in charge of receiving and marking the machinery, check over some of the latest arrivals, a bean cultivator and a rake. Farmers wanting to help distribute unused machinery for this year's war crops program were urged to act at once. Hundreds of farm buyers will be on hand Friday. (Staff Photo Engraving)

CIVILIANS TO GET EXTRA WAR GOODS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (U.P.)—W. L. Clayton, newly designated surplus war property administrator, today planned immediate steps to make available to civilians increasing surpluses of manufactured goods and raw materials held by the armed services.

Clayton will resign as assistant secretary of commerce to take over the new assignment given him yesterday by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes as the first White House step in carrying out the war and post-war reconversion program developed by Bernard M. Baruch.

Byrnes also announced that Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' administration, would be made "retraining and re-employment director" of OWM—a job also recommended by the Baruch report. He will have charge of what Baruch called the "whole human side of demobilization, covering war workers as well as military personnel."

Clayton, 84-year-old Texas cotton dealer who has been in the Roosevelt administration since 1940, said his first big problem, after organizing a small staff, would be to make available for civilian use "things that the army has started to turn back."

He mentioned "trucks" and "some raw materials" as examples. But he cautioned that the list would be comparatively small for the time being and that his picture of available surpluses war goods would not be complete until he had made a full study with the army and navy.

"Policy-making and supervision will be our only task," Clayton said, adding that he hoped to keep his new unit of the government "out of the administrative end."

"The actual work of disposal will be done by existing agencies," he emphasized.

Mrs. Sweeley New On Library Board

Mrs. Everett M. Sweeley, 928 Blue Lakes boulevard, was appointed to the city library board at Monday night's meeting of the Twin Falls city council.

Mrs. Sweeley takes the place vacated by the resignation of Mrs. Ralph Pink, which was accepted at last week's meeting. The term for which she was appointed expires Jan. 1, 1945.

DECLO

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kerbs have returned to their home in Washington after spending the past week here. They came to attend the funeral of their father, George Kerbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Sparrow returned from a business trip to Ogden, Utah.

Both Promoted

Glenn Boren

Charles Miller

Glenn W. Boren, Twin Falls, has been promoted to the rating of aviation radar technician first class at the naval air station, Whidby Island, Wash., and Charles Everett Miller has been advanced to aviation machinist's mate first class at Camp Kearney, San Diego. (Staff Engravings)

* * * *

Radar Technician Earns Promotion

He still plays the piano in his spare time, but Glenn W. Boren has more important things to do these days.

He has just received rating of aviation radar technician first class and is hard at work in the laboratories of the naval air station, Whidby Island, Wash. The nature of his work is secret.

Boren is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Boren, 555 Fifth avenue north, Twin Falls. His wife is at Whidby Island with him, and they reside in an apartment on the station. Mrs. Boren is employed as a naval stenographer in the office building that houses the laboratories to which her husband is assigned.

Boren graduated from the Ward Island technical training school at Corpus Christi, Tex., last September.

JEROME BOY ADVANCES

JEROME, Feb. 22—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, Jerome, have learned of the advancement of their son, Charles Everett Miller, who is now aviation machinist's mate first class in the navy. He is stationed at Camp Kearney, San Diego, and is an instructor on navy plane engines.

He was sent to Hawaii March 26, 1942 and was stationed there until the following February. For six months he was on Guadalcanal. He is a Jerome high school graduate.

FAIRFIELD

Mrs. Luther Koonce and baby, Ruth, are spending the week with the P. M. Jesness family at Mountain Home.

Evans Thompson, Hailey, has moved to Fairfield and is to be employed by E. J. McHan.

W. D. Simon is visiting his parents in Montana. His mother is ill.

Mrs. Bud Lee and son, Lawrence, Preston, Ida., are visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Burton.

Carey Soldier With Stilwell In Closest Brush With Death

By DARRELL BERRIGAN

WITH CHINESE FORCES IN HUKAWNG VALLEY, Burma, Feb. 22 (U.P.)—Mud, one of the greatest obstacles ever faced by military men, saved the life of Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, commanding general of U. S. troops in China, Burma, and India.

The veteran American campaigner had his closest brush with death when a Japanese 75 mm. howitzer, firing at random, bracketed him and his party on a lonely jungle trail in Hukawng valley, and in Stilwell's own words, only the mud saved them from the close-falling shells.

Carey Man In Party

Hiking through the steaming quagmires with Stilwell were Maj. Fred Eldridge, Los Angeles; Capt. Richard E. Young, Honolulu; Sgt. Robert Briggs, Carey, Ida.; Pfc. Myles Schauer, Oak Park, Ill.; S/Sgt. Paul Gish, Wadsworth, O.; Dara Singh, Singapore Indian, and three correspondents including myself.

We were walking along the jungle trail silent except for the distant hollow thud of shells, when we heard a sudden swishing sound like escaping steam from the rear.

I hit the ground with Schauer close behind just as the first shell exploded throwing mud over those in the rear. The concussion lifted [illegible] bodily from the trail.

Crouched In Brush

Stilwell was crouching low against the underbrush and I followed him when he scurried forward after the explosion. A second shell hissed down. I fell flat into the mud, with Stilwell crouching low against the trail, holding his carbine close beside him. Through the false calm, Stilwell called out:

"Over the hill, over the hill."

We started to run forward, bent low. Gish and Singh, who were leading the column, disappeared down a deep cut where the trail dropped into a ravine.

Ordered Retreat

Stilwell crouched low again as more shells exploded just off the trail. We started out again. I got over the rise of the ground, I found Stilwell sitting with his gun between his legs, and his back against the cut, grinning encouragement.

"We're safe here," he said. "That was close."

When the others arrived, Stilwell checked every man and ordered us to march swiftly from the area.

Petition Entered In Parke Estate

HAILEY, Feb. 22—Petition for letters of administration for the probate of the will of Charlotte L. Parke was filed in probate court by Hall C. Parke, a son of the deceased.

Frank Parke, her other son, who was also named in the will as co-administrator, has waived his rights as such due to the fact that he is now residing in Long Beach, Calif., and employed in necessary war work to which he must return. He has been in Hailey since the sudden passing of his mother after a heart attack.

Property involved are lots 8, 9, 10, block 32 and lot 12, block 33, all in Hailey, and certain personal property. All property was divided equally between the two sons. Hearing on the petition will be March 3.

Philosophy
from Leaders in our Nation's History

George Washington said:

"Should the states reject this excellent Constitution, the probability is that an opportunity will never again offer to make another in peace—the next will be drawn in blood."

George Washington uttered these words after signing the Constitution on September 17, 1787. Today we celebrate his birthday and honor him as a statesman, builder, soldier . . . acknowledged leader. Let us heed his words regarding our constitution—it is an instrument worth protecting, adhering to and following. Recently the bakers of Butter-Krust bread caused to have printed the full text of the Constitution of the United States — thousands of you read it and those thousands can readily understand why Washington regarded it as "excellent." Let us pray for courage, under any circumstances, for the wisdom and the strength to preserve our constitution, that the next one may not "be drawn in blood."

Each week, the bakers of Butter-Krust bread will bring to you bits of philosophies which have come from our nation's leaders . . . thinking which has determined the course of our nation. Knowing what others have thought may make our thinking clearer in respect to our country.
